

Four Seasons Health Care operates elderly and other specialised care centres in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

The company is one of the largest independent healthcare providers in the UK.

Specialised centres, catering for learning and physical disabilities, mental health and addictions, acquired brain injury and neurodisabilities, some under The Huntercombe Group name, also form part of the company.

Four Seasons' experience dates back 20 years and the company has achieved growth through acquisitions and new builds and has firmly established a reputation for professionalism in all aspects of its operation.

Four Seasons and The Huntercombe Group, are well known names within the healthcare industry.

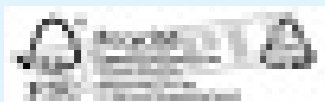

The company cares for over 15,000 elderly and vulnerable people in approximately 350 facilities across the UK.

Welcome to Four Seasons Health Care

Recognised as market leaders

Four Seasons Health Care operate care homes and other specialised centres in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland and are one of the leading independent healthcare operators in the UK.

Four Seasons' experience dates back 20 years and the company has achieved growth through acquisitions and new builds. We have firmly established a reputation for professionalism in all aspects of our operation.

Our views are widely sought on important issues relating to the care sector and the experience and commitment of our senior team is recognised by all.

Services available

Across Four Seasons, including through our specialised services division, The Huntercombe Group, long term care and short term respite care is provided to individuals with a wide range of needs including:

- Frail elderly and specialised dementia care, including those eligible for NHS Continuing Care funding.
- End of life and palliative care.
- Intermediate care.

- Adults with neurodisabilities and physical disabilities, including acquired brain injury.
- Challenging behaviour.
- Adults and adolescents with mental healthcare needs, including eating disorders.
- Addictions, including alcohol and drug rehabilitation and detoxification.
- Learning disabilities.

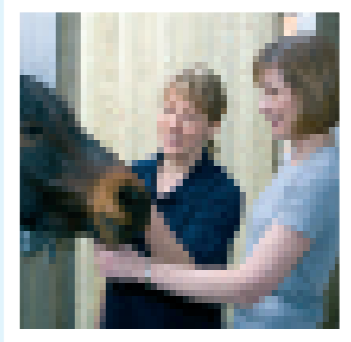

Services for each person are tailored through detailed care planning processes, taking into account the needs and interests of the individual. The rights, dignity, individuality and lifestyle of clients is respected and an environment is provided in which clients feel comfortable and safe and included in the community.

Emphasis on quality of care

The quality of care provided to all individuals in Four Seasons' homes and centres is of utmost importance. Rigorous recruitment, training, staff support and audit procedures are in place to ensure that staff are able to deliver high quality care. In addition, the homes and centres provide appropriate accommodation to support individuals in their rehabilitation and care.

Four Seasons strives to continuously improve its services and to ensure that they reflect best practice and regulatory requirements.

Company Profile

A partner for the NHS and public sector

Four Seasons Health Care already work in partnership with PCTs and NHS Trusts developing and operating care services that complement the services provided by the NHS.

Already the company cares for many individuals on behalf of Local Authorities and the NHS.

Long term care is provided for individuals with continuing healthcare needs, including older people, younger adults with physical disabilities and adults of all ages with enduring mental healthcare needs.

In addition, intermediate care services, to assist in the reduction of delayed discharges and to optimise the rehabilitation of individuals to return home, wherever possible, are available.

Support and training for staff

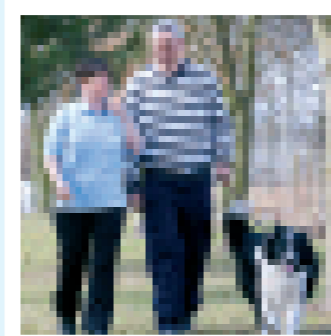

Four Seasons place great emphasis on staff support, development and training. This commitment means that staff are educated and motivated, hence benefiting the clients and the personal career development of the individual staff.

The company employs over 21,000 staff and as such is a major employer within the healthcare sector.

The Huntercombe
Group

CREATIVE SOLUTIONS FOR COMPLEX NEEDS

Part of Four Seasons Health Care is The Huntercombe Group, one of the leading specialised care providers in the independent sector with many established units providing a range of services, almost exclusively to the NHS and Local Authorities. Our specialism is in treating those with complex conditions. These include mental health, addictions, eating disorders, learning disability, acquired brain injury, physical and neurodisability.

(See overleaf for locations and full details of the services provided).

Our centres are staffed by teams with a wide range of proven experience and professional expertise. Our senior clinicians are amongst the most respected experts in their fields. Comprehensive treatment programmes are tailored to meet the individual needs of clients, patients and families. With a focus on rehabilitation, we provide specialised treatment, nursing, residential and respite care. We work closely with local provider teams to ensure that our clients and patients are supported at all levels.
